

Technical Advisor & Sales Representative Greenhouse Technology (m/f/d) U.S. and Canada

Our partner is a leading international supplier of greenhouse technology. To expand and develop the trading business, we are looking for an experienced manager who can decisively drive the company's development in the market and can identify client needs to provide tailored technical solutions, demos, and support.

Interested? Give us a call or send us your application.

What you can expect:

- Close cooperation and networking with greenhouse farmers, clients in R&D and plant breeding
- Regular on-site customer visits and deep involvement in their programs
- Monitoring and business development for market expansion
- Visiting and participating in relevant trade fairs and scientific conferences
- Work in a passionate, multidisciplinary team based in the EU
- Competitive remuneration package
- Home-based work environment

What is required:

- Degree in agricultural or horticultural sciences
- Knowledge in greenhouse techniques and controlled environment production systems
- Practical experience in plant related R&D teams or in plant breeding
- Identify client needs and provide practical guidance on technical solutions
- Structured, independent and hands-on working style
- High willingness to travel within the U.S. & Canada
